Western River Rafting Trips vs. Other Vacations

The Westwater Multi-Sport Adventure gives you a taste of a rafting vacation with Western River Expeditions. You'll quickly find that the setting and pace of a Western River rafting trip gives you something you don't find in other vacations. On a rafting trip, you'll find the absolute escape from the hectic world around us - completely free of distractions. You'll experience the pinnacle of relaxation as you drift over tranquil pools of water under the shadows of towering rock formations. You'll discover the exhilaration and thrill of rolling waves and crashing whitewater, the exploration of seldom-seen natural wonders and outlaw history, and the fresh feeling of renewal as the morning sun slowly filters through winding canyons. All this provides an indescribable sense of belonging. A sense of oneness with yourself and those around you. A sense of adventure, reflection and renewal. A time to hear your own heart beat. On a Western River Expedition, you will quickly discover why so many are calling this "the best vacation of their lives."

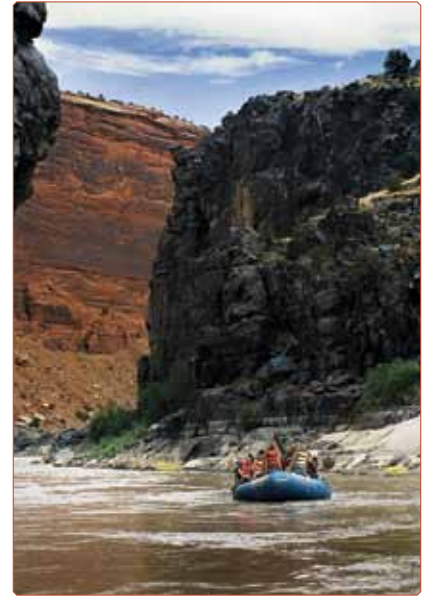

A Typical Day on the River

After boarding the Western River shuttle at Red Cliffs Lodge, you'll enjoy a scenic drive along the Colorado River to our launch point near the Colorado-Utah border.

Launch onto a calm stretch of the Colorado River, perfect for swimming and relaxing. As you get to know your guide and those on your trip, we'll stop at a historic miner's cabin, learn about the incredibly unique geology in this area and search for desert wildlife.

After a morning of relaxation and picture-perfect vistas, you'll notice the canyon begins to narrow and get much deeper. You're about to enter the whitewater section of the Westwater Canyon. You'll stop for a delicious riverside buffet lunch just above Little Dolores Rapid. After lunch, you'll have a whitewater orientation including how and where to sit on the rafts and how to stay safe in the rapids. Then get ready to hold on! Funnel Falls, Skull Rapid, Sock-it-to-Me and a host of other exhilarating Colorado River rapids provide fun and excitement through the rest of the canyon.

After your last rapid, the canyon widens again and the river calms giving you one last chance to kick back and soak in the astounding beauty of America's most incredible river. You'll bid farewell to your guides and enjoy a scenic ride back to Red Cliffs Lodge.

"We had a great time on our trip and were so glad we chose Western River. We met Mike on the Hummer trip, Emily at our lunch, Josh, Becky, Scott, and Mark on the rafting tour (we enjoyed this fantastic part of the adventure!) and also had very friendly guides on our horse tour. Each guide was excellent and made the experience what it was. We brought back brochures to give out to friends and co-workers and have encouraged many people to visit you. Thanks for making our family vacation one of the best ever. We hope to return with even more family members."

Accommodations – Red Cliffs Lodge

While the West is best known for its rugged landscape and hardy adventures, staying at the Red Cliffs Lodge is anything but primitive. Every room at Red Cliffs Lodge has a soothing view of either the Colorado River (just 100 feet away) or Castle Creek, which runs through the property. The scenery is both spectacular and private.

In addition, each room and suite is designed to capture the frontier spirit of the West, with solid log furniture, knotty pine accents and muted stucco palettes. But because even the most adventurous traveler craves a little civilization, every suite and cabin at the Lodge is stocked with plenty of genteel pleasures.

Every luxury room is a mini suite featuring:

- » Separate kitchenette
- » Coffee pot
- » Refrigerator
- » Microwave
- » Air-conditioner
- » Separate dining area
- » Fully tiled bathrooms with bathtub/showers
- » Carpet/Mexican Sattilo Tile throughout

"My husband and I booked this trip as our 20 year anniversary celebration and WHAT A TRIP! The guides were awesome, Red Cliffs Lodge was amazing! The excursions were all very well done (not too long, not too short). And then there is the scenery....can't beat it! We are already planning to come again next year with the kids! Great job!"

DEEANN, Texas

"This was the best vacation we have ever taken! We booked extra trips with Western River and all were fantastic."

Rafts on the Colorado River

On Colorado River trips through Westwater Canyon, Western River Expeditions offers both oar rigs and paddleboats. You'll be able to experience the excitement of a paddleboat or ride aboard a comfortable oar rig piloted by Western's skilled guides. The use of paddleboats in Westwater Canyon is determined by water levels. Generally, Western uses oar rigs earlier in the season (May-June) and both oar rigs and paddleboats later in the season (July-August).

Western's Oar Rig

Western's guides adeptly maneuver four to six passenger oar rigs. These specially designed, 18-foot boats offer a comfortable ride and are "self-bailing" which means that any water that comes into the raft immediately flows back out.

- A Ice water and cold lemonade
- B Guest seating
- C First aid kit
- D Guest gear bags
- E Guide seat atop coolers
- F Throw bag
- G Oars
- H Dry food storage box
- I Personal storage boxes or bags
- J Storage for tents, cots, kitchen stoves, tables
- K "Flip Lines" designed to flip a boat over in the rare event of an overturn
- L Bucket for boat rinsing... and water fighting

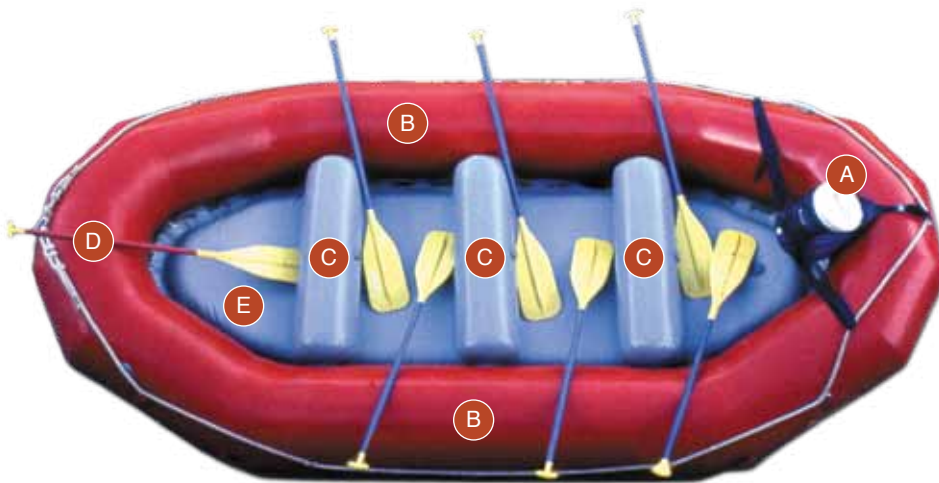

"Our guides were courteous, helpful, well-groomed, extremely knowledgeable, and above all else it was obvious that they hold a passion for, and respect for the river, and truly love what they are doing. Never once did I feel that they were just 'doing their job.'"

PENNY, Newport Beach, CA

Western's Paddle Raft

In conjunction with our Oar rigs, Western also offers paddleboats (according to water levels) which provide "hands-on" excitement in conquering the waves with a spirited team of 6 to 8 rafters. Paddlers need not have any prior experience as Western's guides will provide ample instruction and ensure everyone's success.

- A Ice cold water
- B Guest seating
- C Seating for smaller children or guests not wanting to paddle
- D Guide seat
- E Self-bailing floor instantly flushes out any water that comes into the boat

"Awesome, the very best, the ride of a lifetime (so far)! You have to be there to find your own words. Had the most wonderful experience in a long, long time! Thanks for the memories! I'm there next year!!"

General Information

PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS FOR RAFTING TRIPS

Our primary concern is participant safety. The nature of an outdoor adventure involves some physical exertion and also possible exposure to weather conditions that can fluctuate greatly due to heat, sun, wind, or rain. Although we do have experience accommodating persons with a wide range of physical challenges, disabilities, or medical and health conditions, we have found that in some people the fact of age, weight, lack of conditioning, heart or other disease, can create additional hardship that diminishes the suitability or enjoyment of this type of vacation. Please consider these conditions in making your choice of river adventures. Please check with your physician prior to your trip if you have any medical or health condition or if you are taking any medications, and then notify us of how we can better help you with these conditions. In general, participants will need to meet the following physical requirements:

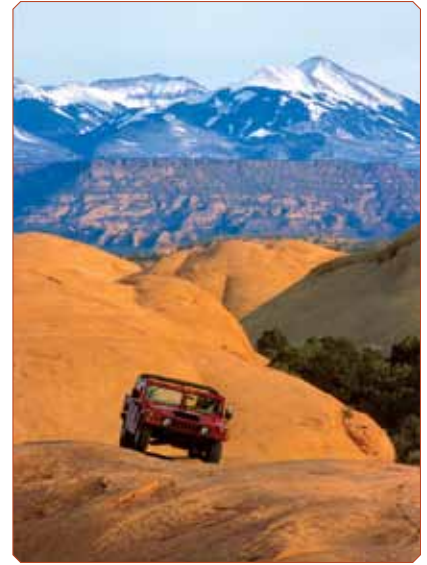

- » Fit into a Type 5 Life Jacket (maximum chest size 52" required by the National Park Service)
- » Ability to securely grip handholds while running the rapids
- » Enough agility to climb on and off the rafts
- » Ability to navigate uneven terrain on hikes and in camp
- » Carry your own dry bag which will include your 20-pound duffel bag along with the sleeping bag and ground cover we provide

Our principle objective is for you and your fellow guests to have an enjoyable and fulfilling experience. If you are concerned about any of these requirements, please call our friendly staff to further discuss which trip is right for you. Our Acknowledgement of Risk Form will more fully describe some of the inherent risks involved in these activities. We look forward to having you join us on the adventure of a lifetime.

"We just returned from our Utah trip that included the Westwater Trip. It was GREAT! Jon, Cam & Brad were great guides and cooks. The scenery was awesome on the river and we continued to enjoy Utah while hiking in Arches and the Moab area. The pictures we took don't do justice to the scenery. Thanks for the memories!"

A suggested per-person guideline is between $5 and $15 for Hummer and Horseback tours and $10 to $25 on the rafting trip. The common practice is to give the gratuity to the guide at the end of the trip. In trips where multiple guides have participated, the gratuity will be split amongst all of them.
